Tenarky District Convention and Rose Show by Mary Ann Hext, TDD

Our district fall convention and rose show were a great success. I hope you read all about it in the fall issue of Katnips. This newsletter will include information and photos highlighting our BGRS members who received awards at the convention and also the NRS show. Photos were taken by: Howard Carman, Bob Jacobs, Dan Wernigk, and myself.

Bob and Ann Jacobs were awarded the ARS Silver Honor Medals for their service to the Tenarky District. Osei Thomas received the ARS Hybrid Tea Novice Award for 'Grafin Diana' (Dark Desire). Connie Baird, NRS & BGRS member, won the Ruth Tiedeman Memorial Rose Arrangement Trophy National ARS Challenge Class with her traditional line-mass arrangement design.

President's Corner by Bob Jacobs, MR

Fall is here and winter is coming soon. I will not get in any hurry to winterize my roses. I have stopped using granular fertilizer. You can use some liquid for another week or so. I will wait for at least two hard freezes before cutting back and winterizing. Usually around first of December. More information on winterizing at our meeting by a guest speaker.

I encourage all of you to bring roses for in-club competition November 12 as this will be your last opportunity this year. We will name those with most wins at our Christmas Party.

Nominations for new officers! Kathy has agreed to chair the committee and will present a slate at the November meeting. You can nominate someone prior to voting.

Christmas Party Saturday, December 9 at 12:30!!! Ann will need menus returned and a final count of those attending. Several have already sent menus. She will accept payment for your meals. We have excellent facilities for the party at Hyatt Place, 1347 Center Street, Bowling Green. And, entertainment you will enjoy!

I look forward to seeing all members Sunday, November 12 at the Extension Office on Nashville Rd at 2 pm. Mary Ann and Ricky are providing refreshments. Yum!

November/December Rose Tips from Noah Wilson, MR, Holston Rose Society

Things I will do to my roses in November and December:

1. Until killing freezes begin to make my roses go dormant I will continue to spray, as long as growth is evident.
2. This time of year can produce some of the year's prettiest blooms with deep color and large blooms. I will back off of deadheading and let the bushes go dormant as Mother Nature will have them do. I will continue to cut blooms to bring in and share with friends.
3. After temperatures have gotten down to the mid 20's a couple of times I will begin to cut my bush tops back to about 4 or 5 feet. This is so the winter winds don't rock them back and forth creating a void space around the bush. A void allows rain water to fill in and possibly freeze, thus killing the bush.
4. I will, at this time, begin to mulch for winter protection pulling mulch up around the bush some 6 to 8 inches high to protect the bud union.
5. After this I will remove any unwanted bushes that I either don't want to keep or that did not perform to my expectation. These I may give to someone in hopes they too will get hooked on growing roses. I will prepare my holes with fresh compost or cow manure using  $\frac{1}{3}$  top soil,  $\frac{1}{3}$  humus and  $\frac{1}{3}$  sand or perlite, if needed. I will also add 2 cups Mills Magic Rose Mix in the bottom of the hole.
6. I will get my roses ordered for replacing the ones I removed and possibly add several new ones, too.

Watch out for POWDERY MILDEW ... in the fall conditions are IDEAL for powdery mildew, cool dry nights and warm days. The white or gray looking mildew grows on dry foliage and makes the leaves curl up.

Spray before any evidence of infection shows up: Use can use Immunox, Eagle or Daconil. Going Organic? Try Green Cure (potassium bicarbonate, www.GreenCure.net), Serenade (Bacillus subtilis – now the active ingredient in Bayer's Natria – RTU fungicide product) Jojo-ba Oil, or Southern Agriculture's Garden Friendly Fungicide.
